

Early Experiences Elevate Everything: How the Early Years Influence the Life Course

|--|
| We know poverty does affect children so why not invest money for better schooling in low income areas. |
| i agree christine, they would rather invest in prisons |
| Yeah, and described in those 2 play styles are Risley & Hart's 30 million words! |
| and lets not get into charter schools |
| Go question, Cristina! I feel that our country invest more money into sports and meaningless studies instead of Education! |
| I think we would all agree with these points but how to change it? |
| Oh, please, charter schools, if you can filter applicants you'd better be successful!!! |
| Thats why its important to provide every child with the opportunity of Head Start and an important environment and nutritional programs... |
| More money needed for education and support services... |
| Yes it is very disappointing how the money goes elsewhere instead of the school system. |
| I am thinking... I am listening to a med school lecture. I kept reading the creditals and who....a MPH with a MD. This is a very informative and educational session. sidebar: In Michigan the prisons have much privatisation. It is money making. |
| Make sure your own senators & representatives know how important 0-5 is to the nation. |
| Minnesota thinks PK is very important its just our governor is having a hard time with legislation understanding that |
| I love these types of lectures/information presentations! |
| This is an excellent session. Thank you for having Dr. Navsaria! |
| opps meant an enriched and appropriate environment... |
| great lecture |
| Sydney....so true...I feel there is a lot of bickering in MN legislature basically because of Democrats vs Republicans |
| love this information |
| In MN, I don't think we need universal Pre-K. We need more money to go to programs like Child Care Assistance, Head Start, Parent Aware, etc. to help support families with young children. Putting children into the education system earlier doesn't necessarily yield better health for those children and families. We need comprehensive services for families in poverty, and more parent education around these topics. |
| There really needs to be a push on making 0-3 more important. I think when everyone talks about early education most of the emphasis is on the 3-5 crowd. |
| This is why the work Early Head Start programs are doing is SO IMPORTANT!!! Working with expectant families as well as infants and toddlers and their families makes the difference! |
| we see a big difference when we have students that start in the early head start program and continue on to head start. |
| if they could just implement life skill classes and parenting classes in place of a job search forthe welfare procederes, them maybe we would see some sort of difference in this child parent interaction |
| Thanks Great Session.. good points |
| This is very informative and interesting. |
| WOW! This is interesting information. |

| Providing more money to scholarships to families and improving the existing child care centers and family child care would better meet children and families needs. A universal system puts kids in pre-k for maybe half the day. What do they do the other half? And we know transitions for these children are hard so why not keep them in the child care centers they're in and focus on improving quality. EHS Child Care Partnerships is a great start. |
| that's why we need universal PK; so that EVERYONE can get the services, there are so many families that EHS misses because they can only serve so many families and then only so many families are a little over income and have to miss out but yet they don't make enough to go to a public school system for programs such as school readiness or have a quality child care |
| You're right Emily. EHS is very important, but we need the powers that be to recognize that. We also need to require more training/education for those of us who work for EHS. |
| I agree also EHS needs more education/training |
| I agree that we need more training such as this conference. I have been an EHS Home Visitor for a few years but realize that that I would be more effective with specialized training for EHS |
| All these protective interventions are the exact comprehensive services that EHS/HS provides |
| Speaking of Charter schools. Had you ever considered that when parents get frustrated with the convoluted local school districts red tape when it comes to the education or miseducation of their children, they turn to charter schools. Rather than filtering they become the saviors or the dumping ground without resources to address educational issues. BTW I was Principal of a charter school for more than 15 years, and never turned away a child. |
| I totally agree. Parents are the starting tool. |
| I was think that too, Thank! |
| Yes, definitely. More training for EHS and more awareness of how important this service is for children, families and communities. |
| Every Early Childhood Educator and caregiver needs this training and more trainings like this. |
| More education for EHS is important. Need more $ for additional training. |
| EHS is important, but we must start much with teaching child development in Jr. and senior high school--The children of today do not have the extended family to model child care--Let's not blame poverty--it is the breakdown of the extended family unit--the education system must intervene and assume the role of child care -- |
| Started them where they were and took them as far as they could go...to the moon Yes Thank you Prin ci pal |
| Carletta I feel that parents still are not sure between the difference of LAUSD and Charter School. But I have heard Charters school are also good. |
| Good points, Marie. I never thought it was only families in poverty who struggle. I was a nanny for a "Well off" family and the children were struggling as well. |
| What advise does Dr. Navsaria have on how break down the silos that impede addressing poverty and fostering optimal child development |
| But why does the education system become responsible for a breakdown outside of the ducation ystem??? |
| I agree with the idea of more extensive training for EHS. I got handed some EHS slots with not a lot of training so I struggle a bit. My Early Childhood degree was obtained 26 years ago so I could use some support, especially in doing my Infant Nurse Consulting. I have found ZERO training for that! |
| Earlier the better |

| Home visitors are not paid very well - It takes $ to go back to school. |
| This presentation is full of such insightful information--really enjoying it! |
| Adverse Childhood Experiences occur in well-to-do families as well as low-income families... |
| It could also be the information age. We're all on information overload. Gone are the days when children had time to be children who could play and be creative etc, etc. |
| Early, early, early!!!! |
| love fredrick douglas |
| Excellent presentation |
| very important information |
| Wow |
| Good point about "evidence guided." |
| those are great ideas |
| good points |
| Would Dr. Navsaria please speak before congress? |
| excellent points! |
| Common sense! YEP!! |
| Excelente presentacion |
| great ideas |
| love the idea to build parent confidence. great ideas |
| Can 0-3 years old be vegan and still have the nutrition to make the optimal journey to be an excelling pre=schooler... Opps I must put this in the question box |
| Excellent presentation and VERY inspiring! |
| totally agree with last point he made; that one key adult in a child's life can change a lot |
| So true what he just said... At least one caring adult can make a difference! |
| Dr. Navsaria is Awesome! So many ahhh haaa moments! |
| just as one uncaring adult can make a difference |
| Great Presenter :) |
| Infant Mental Health programs are wonderful for supporting parents so they can best support their children! |
| If you agree with his statement that just one adult in a childs life can make the most amazing difference...look up Kids at Hope. It is an amzing framework to put this into practice |
| this video is great |
| Great information. .. |
| enjoying this presentation and Dr. Navsaria's presentation style is really keeping my attn. :-) |
| This has been powerful video for me to use in TTA! |
| And a focus on multi-generational mental health in our programs |
| Great information, very useful for my position.... |
| Building Adult Capacities |
| Video is Building Adult Capacities |
| This video is included in our new staff training. Very powerful! And current staff re-watch it every year during training. |

| thanks!!! great presentations and valuable for my job. |
| This is truly news I can use. |
| The Youtube link is on the screen but you can probably search it @ Building Adult Capabilities active skill building! Not just sharing information..that was my take-away. As a trainer, I try and remember this for every training I design. |
| Here is the link to the video - https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=urU-a_FsS5Y |
| Thanks to everyone involved in this conference. |
| human capital and healthy population, love it |
| It takes a village, right? |
| Valuable information to share with parents and help them to build their capacities |
| See Detroit Public Policy Forums... www.nbcdi.org |
| this is an amazing presentation. |
| Yes Missy, it does take a Village. |
| My village is expanding as I type. |
| was a good presentation |
| So great that all parents, "high risk" and "low risk" are being addressed. |
| I believe strongly in the Public Health Approach but our Public Health system gets constant budget cuts and so services are severely restricted. |
| MN needs this! |
| I am wondering what folks can do to advocate for stronger policies to support implementing this information in our programs. Like if there is a set of proven steps that have led to policy changes in some states. |
| Great session. Thank you Dr. Navsaria! |
| He needs to present at NAEYC and other Early Childhood conferences! After 40 years finally someone took a deeper look! |
| In our great nation the government need to focus on our children, as one said "No Child left behind" is this true? Thanks to all advocacy parents, teachers who work with pregnant moms, infants and toddlers for giving them a great head start in life. |
| I definitely want to view this presentation again once it of uploaded on the site!!! I've been interested in learning more about this topic! |
| I have enjoyed this session so much!!! in spite of the constant loss of connection. |
| Wonderful information |
| yay for home visitors!!! |
| Thank you!!! |
| Wonderful presenter. Great session. |
| Thank you Dr. Navsaria. |
| Very informative! great presentation Dr. Navsaria! |
| Great session |
| This was sooo good! I am returning to continue researching on the effects of toxic stress and brain development. |
| excellent session |
