

Number Relationships: Bees Buzzing

Teacher: Where are the bees?

Girl: There.

Teacher: They're hidden inside where nobody sees. Can you see them? I can't see them. Watch and you'll see them come out of the hive.

Teacher: Are you ready?

Child: Yeah.

Teacher: Bzzzzzz. Oh, they're all together. Let's see if we can count them.

One...

Two...

Teacher and children: Three. Four.

Teacher: Maya, you're sitting on Natalie's lap. Five. Can you -- there you go. Five! Five bees, bzzzzzz! Are they going to go away? Should we say our rhyme? Oh, let's see here. Oh, that's not the right bag. That's the spider web bag. I need the right bag for the bees. Five little bees buzzing by the door. One flew away -- bzzzz -- and then there were...?

Child: Four. Teacher: Four. Four little bees, buzzing by a tree. One flew away -- bzzzz -- and then there were...?

Child: Four.

Teacher: Three. Three. Close, though. Three little bees, buzzing next to you. One flew away -- bzzzz -- and then there were...?

Child: Four!

Teacher: Two. You like that number four, don't you? Two little bees, having lots of fun. One flew away -- bzzzz -- and then there was...?

Child: Four!

Teacher: One! Yeah, like there's one finger. One little bee, flying by the sun. She flew away -- bzzzz -- and then there were... none is a word that rhymes with sun. But zero. None means zero. Goodbye, beehive.
