

INFANTS AND TODDLERS

Supporting Early Math Learning for Infants and Toddlers

Early Head Start National Resource Center. (2012, October). News you can use: Supporting early math learning for infants and toddlers. Retrieved from <http://eclkc.ohs.acf.hhs.gov/hslc/tta-system/ehsnrc/cde/curriculum/nycuearlymathlear.htm>

This resource from the Early Head Start National Resource Center describes ways adults can be more intentional in how they support math learning with infants and toddlers during everyday activities and routines.

Supporting the Intuitive Understanding of Early Math in Infants and Toddlers

Early Head Start National Resource Center. (2013, May 30). Supporting the intuitive understanding of early math in infants and toddlers [Webinar]. Retrieved from <http://eclkc.ohs.acf.hhs.gov/hslc/tta-system/ehsnrc/cde/curriculum/SupportingtheIn.htm>

This 90-minute webinar produced by the Early Head Start National Resource Center discusses early math concepts in infants and toddlers and how adults can facilitate early math experiences through observation and planning.