

A GUIDE TO RESOURCES FOR DEVELOPING SCHOOL READINESS GOALS

This resource provides information on State Early Learning Standards (ELS) as well as state Quality Rating Improvement Systems (QRIS) and kindergarten readiness assessments. A comprehensive, high-quality system of services for young children should be based on an integrated, coherent framework where curriculum and assessment are aligned with early learning standards, with the goal of improving children's readiness for success in school.

Head Start programs are required to establish goals for enhancing school readiness of children, including school readiness goals that are aligned with the Head Start Child Development and Early Learning Framework, and State Early Learning Standards as appropriate (Head Start Act, 2007).

This resource is designed to provide programs with direct access to their state's ELS as well as information on other tools for programs to improve children's readiness for kindergarten. Programs can use this information to review alignments between state standards and their program's curriculum and assessment.

Early Learning Standards

Early Learning Standards (ELS) describe expectations for the learning and development of young children (NAEYC/NAECS-SDE, 2002). ELS were developed to help improve instruction and programming as well as children's readiness for school (Scott-Little, 2005). A wide range of stakeholders representing early education, K-3 and families were involved in the development of ELS. ELS are continuously reviewed and revised to reflect up-to-date knowledge and research on desired outcomes for young children.

Dual Language Learners (DLL) Standards

For further information on DLL standards please see the Dual Language Learners in State Early Learning Guidelines and Standards document from the National Center on Cultural and Linguistic Responsiveness. This resource provides a summary of how DLLs are represented in state early care and education guidelines and standards. http://eclkc.ohs.acf.hhs.gov/hslc/tta-system/cultural-linguistic/center/state-guidelines/dll\_guidelines.html

Quality Rating Improvement Systems (QRIS)

A quality rating and improvement system (QRIS) is a systemic approach to assess, improve, and communicate the level of quality in early and school-age care and education programs. QRIS include standards, accountability measures, program and practitioner outreach and support, financing incentives and parent/consumer education efforts (NCCIC, 2010). This guide indicates whether or not a state has a quality improvement system in place.

Kindergarten Readiness Assessment

Some states also have kindergarten readiness assessments. Kindergarten readiness assessments can be used by programs to assess what children know, and determine what skills they are ready to learn next to ensure children are successful in school (Meisels, 1998). This is another resource in developing school readiness goals. In this guide, we list whether or not a state has kindergarten readiness assessments.

Note: There are frequent revisions and updates to these standards and assessments. In addition to these state-level guidelines, Head Start programs will need to work with their local school districts to understand community expectations for school entry.
